

AMERICAN BABY AND THE KNOT OPEN ONLINE BABY GIFT SHOP

NEW YORK (December 15, 2005)- The American Baby Group, the premier multimedia provider of information to expectant parents and young families including American Baby magazine, and The Knot Inc., a lifestage media company and the nation's leading wedding resource, announced today that they have officially opened the doors to one of the largest online baby gift shops.

The new e-commerce site, www.AmericanBabyShop.com, features over 400 baby gift products from some of the nation's leading manufacturers in the "personalized gifting" market including 3 Martha's, Koo Koo, Noa Lilly, Creative Gifts, and Reed & Barton among others.

Almost every item featured in the shop can be personalized with embossing, engraving and printing for the newborn child and parents. Products featured include fleece and cotton blankets, bibs, canvas diaper bags, sterling silver cups and spoons to picture frames, bookends, baby rompers and stationery among others.

"Given the fact that last year consumers spent over $30 billion on baby gifts and products, we wanted to create a destination that offers new moms and gift givers the opportunity to find unique and special baby gifts that could be customized," says Lauren Wiener, Vice President, Meredith Interactive. "We are excited to partner with The Knot, who has a solid track record in building shopping destinations for a specific lifestage, to offer our consumers products targeted specifically to their needs."

As part of this unique partnership, The Knot will provide product, personalization, distribution and warehousing for all of the items featured on AmericanBabyShop.com.

"We felt that working with the American Baby Group and Meredith was the perfect partnership," says David Liu CEO of The Knot. "Their audience of over one million unique monthly users is actively engaged in an important life stage experience and we are uniquely suited to respond to this type of active audience."

The American Baby Shop was developed through a partnership of AmericanBaby.com, the companion Web site to American Baby, a publication of Meredith Corporation (NYSE: MDP), and The Knot, (NASDAQ: KNOT) the popular media lifestyle company that is home to the largest online shopping destinations for newly engaged and married couples, TheKnot.com.

The American Baby Group will promote the AmericanBabyShop.com to the 6 million monthly American Baby magazine readers as well as across its broad array of branded events and programs including the American Baby Faires. It will also tap into the Meredith network of parent related titles and Web sites which include such popular magazines as Parents and Child to further reach the active baby gift shopper.
